Training offer: Fall Protection

Basic fall protection course

PETZL technical partner

The first and basic work-at-height course. It is for people whose job takes them up to height, where their employer requires them to protect themselves against falls: on flat roofs, on ladders and on MEWPs.

On the course you will learn the basics of fall protection and how to use fall protection equipment safely. You will find out when work counts as work at height and what the duties of the worker and the employer are. You will learn to choose and put on a full body harness, check equipment before use and select anchor points. In practice you will train fall protection on a flat roof, on a ladder and in the basket of a MEWP.

Initial and refresher course
The initial course takes 1 day. The refresher course also takes 1 day and must be repeated every year. People who have completed an initial course, also at another training centre, can take the refresher.

Other work-at-height courses
For work on masts and lattice towers and on pitched roofs we run separate courses: Masts and Lattice Towers and Pitched Roofs.

Why the training is required
Polish law requires training before work at height begins and a refresher every year, because work at height is classed as particularly hazardous work (Labour Code, art. 237^3; Regulation of the Minister of Labour and Social Policy of 26 September 1997 on general health and safety at work; Regulation of the Minister of Economy and Labour of 27 July 2004 on health and safety training). Equipment manufacturers also state that fall protection equipment may only be used by trained people.
